Frog and Toad and the Big Tornado
"We'll have to move this party inside," Frog said.
They gathered their items and went inside. BOOM!! The power went out. Frog lit a candle.
"Let's go into the basement!" Toad shouted.
When they entered the basement, Frog lit every candle he could find.
Suddenly, Toad’s phone started shaking madly and beeping. Frog could hear sirens blaring in the distance.

Frog shouted, “GET IN THE STORAGE ROOM!! I THINK I SEE THE TORNADO!!”

They ran into the storage room and hid under a table. The wind howled around Frog’s house as rain pelted down. CRASH! A tree had smashed into his house, and landed on top of the table in the storage room! Toad looked scared.

“Are you okay?” Frog asked.

“I’m fine,” Toad said.

“You look really scared,” Frog said.

“I am fine, perfectly fine.” Toad’s voice was trembling.
BOOM!! Toad started shaking just like his phone did.
Frog said, "Don't worry, Toad. This is scary, but I'm here."
Then the wind stopped howling, a gentle rain picked up and the sirens stopped.
They came out from under the table and looked at the damaged room.
"Are you sure you're okay? When the tree fell into the house, I was scared," Frog said.
"Well," Toad said, "I was scared. Thank you for comforting me. Frog, would you like to come to my house while your roof gets repaired?"
"I wouldn't like it," he said, "I would love it!"
They laughed and then walked to Toad's house. When they got there, they started setting up – a new tea party.

. The End! .
