Lily and The Wild Flowers
by Maya
Once there was a pony named Lily and she loved flowers but she never had a garden for herself. So she wanted to plant a flower garden but she didn't have any seeds.
So she went to the store and looked for some seeds and there was only one kind of flower but she wanted lots of different kinds of flowers so she asked the farmer instead.
The farmer had lots of flower seeds. She had tulips, roses, sunflowers, and wildflowers.
The farmer gave Lily wild flower seeds so Lily planted them in an empty field and watered them every day.
Soon, the flowers grew and filled the field. Butterflies loved visiting all the flowers. Lily was so happy. The end.
