Northwest Profiles Celebrates 40 Years of Local Storytelling

KSPS PBS's flagship program, Northwest Profiles, will kick off its 40th season this fall, building on a legacy that now includes over 750 stories about regional artists, makers, and community voices.

Jim Zimmer, executive producer at KSPS PBS, has been on staff for Northwest Profile's entire 40-year run, leading a program that's adapted to changes in the media landscape, while still staying true to its roots.

"It's about our community and our neighbors," says Zimmer. "That's what's guided us all this time. The people we profile aren't necessarily famous, but they're doing something special that uplifts others."

This season, in addition to a slate of new profiles, each episode will include a retrospective on an older story interspersed with an interview of the producer who made it. In addition to Zimmer, KSPS PBS producer Scott McKinnon has also been on staff for the program's entire 40-year history. Other founding members of the program, including Lynn Veltrie and Bob Lawrence, will be interviewed as well.

Zimmer's adventures with Northwest Profiles have taken him soaring through the sky with aviator Gladys Buroker, shooting down a luge track with the Calgary Winter Olympics, and gliding through the air with the Walla Walla Hot Air Balloon Stampede.

"As a filmmaker, it's a great gift to be given the time to develop stories like this," says Zimmer. "Especially at a time when so many television stations are joining large conglomerates and cutting budgets, our model as a community-funded, public media station makes this work uniquely possible."

Season 40 premiered on Thursday, October 29 at 7pm PST on KSPS PBS. Episodes air monthly through May. It's also available at ksps.org, YouTube, and the PBS App.

A Message from the General Manager

As 2026 draws to a close, I find myself feeling especially grateful for the community that makes KSPS PBS possible.

In the months ahead, we'll share our annual report, and I'm excited for you to see it. It tells an extraordinary story not only about the impact of our programs and initiatives across the region, but about the remarkable generosity of viewers and donors who stood with us through our first full year without $1.2 million in federal funding.

That support made a profound difference. It helped protect the programs, services, educational resources, local productions, and community work that so many people rely on. It also reminded us, in a very tangible way, how deeply this community values public media.

But as we look toward a new year, I want to be candid about the challenge ahead.

The loss of federal funding was not a one-time $1.2 million emergency. It is a $1.2 million annual loss. The extraordinary gifts that helped carry us through this first year cannot, by themselves, solve a recurring challenge of that size. Sustaining KSPS PBS will require continued generosity, not only in moments of crisis, but year after year.

I remain bullish about the future. I believe federal support for public media can one day be restored. Here in Washington, I'm also working with a group of public media general managers to help redraft legislation that could establish meaningful state support for public broadcasting.

Until either of those things happens, though, the reality is straightforward: Public media is 100% community funded.

That makes your support more important than ever. Every gift is an investment in trusted journalism, children's education, local storytelling, civic engagement, arts and culture, workforce development, and the many other ways KSPS PBS connects, enriches, and inspires the communities we serve.

So as you consider your year-end giving, I hope KSPS PBS will be part of it. We have ambitious plans for the year ahead, and we can pursue them only with the continued partnership of people who believe this service is worth sustaining.

Thank you for being part of that community, and for making public media possible.

CRIME AND PUNISHMENT IN AMERICA

FROM EXECUTIVE PRODUCERS
KEN BURNS AND SAM POLLARD

DIRECTED BY LYNN NOVICK

NEW FOUR-NIGHT SPECIAL

Beginning Monday, November 16
at 8:00PM/9:00MT

A new four-part, eight-hour documentary series explores the consequential story of criminal justice in America as it has never before been told; from the colonial era to today. This is the first documentary project to comprehensively explore the arguments Americans have had over the problem of crime, the purpose of punishment, and the meaning of justice for more than 250 years.

Told through a deeply human lens, each episode is grounded in the stories of individuals whose lives were shaped by the policies and politics of their time. From the public hangings in Colonial America to Franklin D. Roosevelt and J. Edgar Hoover's war on crime, from Jesse James to John Dillinger, Lucky Luciano to Frank Costello, from early television police procedurals to modern day true crime, from Jim Crow chain gangs to the silent corridors of today's supermax prison facilities, the series illuminates both the visible and invisible legacies of punishment in American life.

AT ISSUE: Crime and Punishment in Spokane

November 19 at 7:00PM/8:00MT

To compliment Crime and Punishment in America, KSPS PBS is producing an At Issue special exploring how some of these themes take shape in our region. Host Dana Haynes will dive into the work of the Safe and Healthy Spokane Task Force, whose June report outlined 14 concepts, including modern justice facilities, network housing, and behavioral health infrastructure. Is Spokane ready to pay for it?

Building Community through Local Storytelling

At KSPS PBS, we believe local programming has the power to bring people together as citizens and neighbors. Each year, we produce dozens of original productions designed to connect, enrich, and inspire communities throughout our region.

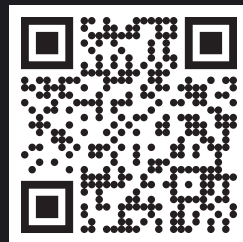

As a community-funded, public media organization, we're built for you and powered by you. And we want to hear from you!

Please take a few minutes to complete our survey about local programming at KSPS PBS. We truly value your input as we work to create productions that represent the interests and needs of our viewers.

Meet Your Station

Evan Peters, Membership Specialist

What is your role at KSPS PBS?

I work with our donors to ensure that their contributions are accurate and continue to come in smoothly each month. I talk with donors daily, not only to make sure they're happy, but also to help them understand our mission.

What is your favorite KSPS PBS show?

I'm a sucker for science! I really enjoy NOVA and its in-depth coverage of history, nature, space, and all sorts of unique topics that people may not know enough about. When it comes to local programming, I put Inland Sessions on repeat when I'm at home. It's a great opportunity to discover local artists and enjoy original music.

What's your preferred way to watch?

I use the PBS App for all things KSPS PBS. It's incredibly convenient to have all our programs right at my fingertips and to be able to pick and choose which episodes interest me most.

What's one thing you wish more people knew about KSPS PBS?

We have something here for everyone! As a station, we strive to reach as many people as possible because there is simply so much we have to offer.

Thank You For Your Support

All the work that KSPS PBS does is made possible by the support from these partners throughout our community:

Associated Industries

Avista

CHAS Health

Eastern Washington University

Idaho Central Credit Union
