PIONEER PREVIEW

A PIONEER PBS ORIGINAL
THE MAGIC OF ICELAND
FEBRUARY 5 AT 7 P.M.

Dear Valued Pioneer PBS members,

I would like to express a huge thank you to all who have given at year-end to stand with us during a very challenging year. It is the strong and generous showing of our members that show us you value what we do for you. This provides us the inspiration to keep up the good fight. We will do all we can to continue to bring the world to you and lift your voices to the world!

February marks our 60th year on the air serving this region! It all started with a bake sale in Appleton and a donated little red schoolhouse. Over the years we've added a transmitter in Fergus Falls and one in Worthington and now operate in a state-of-the-art facility in Granite Falls that carries our signal to 45 counties in western Minnesota, eastern South Dakota and northern Iowa. Through our airwaves and online, we can share your stories with the world! It's been 60 years of growth and service for you. We are truly yours. As we celebrate our 60th year, we will highlight various areas of our history and take you with us into the future. Thank you for coming along on this journey with us!

We are launching ways to celebrate this milestone and connect with our members over the course of our 60th year. Look for more in coming guides, through social media and via our air. We would love to hear from you at yourtv@pioneer.org about what it is you value most about Pioneer PBS. What has it meant to you over the years, what matters most to you now and what stories do you hope we can share in the future? To inspire you we are giving you a couple pages of comments we've collected in the last few months within this guide.

While we are battling through the loss of federal funding, which represented a full third of our annual budget this year, we have pulled enough together to fund the 39th year of Prairie Yard & Garden which premieres in January. The 40th season is at risk unless we can identify some new sources of funding. We are looking for business sponsorships and to grow the Friends of Prairie Yard & Garden group. Please reach out to Mikiaela Meyer at mmeyer@pioneer.org if you would like to learn more about supporting the show or know of a business we should approach. We are working hard to find the funding to continue this beloved program for many years to come.

Thank you again for your support of Pioneer PBS. We are proud to be your station, telling your stories.

Respectfully,

Shari Lamke

Shari Lamke, President & General Manager

here's to 60 years Pioneer PBS SHARING YOUR STORIES WITH THE WORLD

You'll often hear us say, we do what we do for you, but we couldn't do it without you. While that's never been truer, one of the things we are most proud of in our sixty years is telling your stories. These stories are viewed not only locally, but regionally and often times with the world. We are honored to be a part of your story and hope to continue to be for sixty more years to come.

Held in Minnesota: Untold WWII POW Stories
 597,853 views on YouTube since Memorial Day

"I am that little girl in the photo. There were Italian POW's that did some work on our farm in Bird Island. Mother took this photo—plus a few other photos. She said the POW's were anxious to hold me because most have family back in Italy. Joe Sester owned the farm. Thanks for the wonderful documentary. I was only two at the time so I don't remember much."

– Janice Sester

"I've lived in Minnesota for over 40 years, and I had no idea! Wonderful documentary!"

– @rnupnorthbrrsm6123

"The film shows an important episode of American-German history, which is little known – or no longer remembered – here in Germany. Thanks a lot for the great work!"

– Thomas Berwing

THOMAS IS A GERMAN, LIVING IN GERMANY,
 WATCHING PIONEER PBS ON YOUTUBE

"My great grandmother taught me to knit when I was nine. When I got good enough with knit and purl, she taught me to knit with my eyes closed. This was so if I ever went blind, I wouldn't be a burden on anyone. You have to remember that this was in 1970, and my great grandmother remembered a time when people went blind from many of the things that we are vaccinated against today. Every January, I learn a new stitch or technique in honor of her. She will always live in my heart because of the amazing gift she gave me."

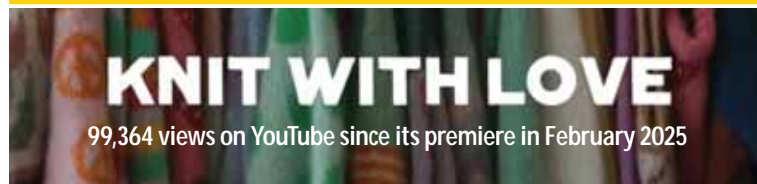

– @denisebenedict6102

"I am from Bergen, Norway. I am 57 and have been knitting for 50 years. In old old time we knitted because we had to have warm clothing and homemade was better and less expensive. Today we knit for the heritage, comfort, happiness and inspiration. Handknitted items are unique and lights up your day."

– @Virkalig

"Hei, watching from Bodø I've lived in a few different places around the world before and nowhere are there so many knitters as here in Norway! Even the smallest supermarket usually carries a selection of knitting wool and needles—and you know you're back in Norway when you land in Oslo and see people knitting at the airport."

– @kka2091

Warriors Path: Drew Brockman

YME SCHOOL SHARED THE DOCUMENTARY WITH STUDENTS AHEAD OF A VISIT IN PERSON FROM IRAQ WAR VETERAN DREW BROCKMAN.

"Thank you for sharing your story Drew. You have been and continue to be an inspiration to me." – @jasonsstewart

"Amazing story—what an incredible individual to have walked the halls of my high school, yet someone I never got to know." – @johnnyvolado

A Life in Motion: The Alec Majerus Story

"Solid dude and a real pro. He makes it look easy, even the big and gnarly stuff."

-@CGW11

"Dude is on a lot of legit companies and has been for years, but in my opinion is heavily underrated. He's been skating just as big spots and getting tech as anyone else with perfect style. Would love to see him start his own brand one day."

- @Turtleboykid

"Great documentary and story! I love how it goes beyond skateboarding and connects us to the human experience. Childhood, family, origin story, CATS."

- @ms.whisperssanonymous8705

"I was gonna be so upset if there weren't any clips with the neon green Osiris hightops. Such an iconic time—the Rochester skaters were crazy good. Alec was a beast flying all around the old MW indoor park!" -

- @micahpaci

postcards FROM THE ARTIST

"My Postcards experience really helped with my confidence as an artist, and helped me promote myself and my art. I'm very passionate about cats and being able to express not only my art, but my muses through my postcard has been such a beautiful experience. I think it adds another level to my art when you're able to meet my muses through watching it. They really captured my pets so well and I really think it helps show my art in the way I want it to be seen. People I've known my whole life in town, see a new side of me through my postcard! I think Postcards is a beautiful way to connect to artists and really see and feel the connection with their art."

- JANEL GUERTIN

"Hundreds of teachers and artists and thousands of students have contributed to this project over its more than twenty-five years of existence, and, in the end, this film captured the essence of why it has succeeded and far exceeded anything I could have imagined or organized on my own. This experience has helped me better understand my own teaching, and I am pleased to be able to share the film with those who have contributed to the project over the years and also use it to introduce the project to new groups."

-ROSS SUTTER

"Even before the Meander I had people comment that they saw the episode and enjoyed it. A few people stopped by my studio to see if I was still working on the painting I was doing during that episode. (It was finished and long gone!)"

- MARY BOYLAN

"It's good knowing Pioneer PBS is out there taking their time and effort to help indigenous communities like me, spread and educate our art and culture to the masses who are unaware of our history and talents. I'm so happy how this production turned out and even more so that I made new friends with PBS!"

- ALEX LUND

"Everyone is telling me how much they loved Fin's part. You guys captured him so well! Fantastic. You guys killed it! Everyone has said it's the best documentary of our work and the feel of our shop anyone has captured!"

- RUNGE CARS, ALEXANDRIA

"I could not believe how many people watched it and reached out about it. I have found that I'm not a very open person, and many people don't know my background, but have always treated me at face value and with respect. I never knew how many people it reached out to. So in a way I'm thankful Pioneer PBS reached out to me and did this amazing piece. Having all ages watch that clip and if it changes in just one person's day, it is all worth it."

- KATIE BELL

"We have been extremely pleased with the Nordic Echoes postcard. It so accurately and beautifully captures the essence of the exhibition and the works of the artists that it presents. We are impressed with the work of the Pioneer PBS team, their professionalism and their artistry. They were a pleasure to work with. Further, the video is helping us spread the word about the exhibition and about our work throughout the Upper Midwest and all of us, including our Board of Trustees, are very happy about that."

INSIDE YOUR LEGISLATORS

MINNESOTA'S LONGEST-RUNNING LIVE LEGISLATIVE CONVERSATION

For decades Your Legislators has created space for real conversations between Minnesotans and the people elected to represent them. In this Q&A, longtime host G. Barry Anderson and producer Matt Johnson reflect on the show's origins, memorable moments, evolving challenges, and why thoughtful, unscripted dialogue still matters in civic life. Don't forget to tune in Thursday, Feb. 12 at 8 p.m.

HOST G. BARRY ANDERSON

You've been hosting Your Legislators for many years now—what made you interested in a live show where Minnesotans could ask their legislators questions directly?

Ansel Doll, then the general manager of Pioneer, had made arrangements to move the program from its original Appleton location to Hutchinson to have better access to more legislators and the vocational school there (as it was then known) had a superb television studio setup. He didn't have a host for the program at that location. Problem solved by the public access coordinator in Hutchinson when she told Ansel the chairman of the local public access board was just the guy to give up Sunday afternoons to moderate a public affairs program. That guy was me and she was right, and I've been with the program since 1989.

Do you recall moments on the show that really made you stop and think—those “aha” conversations that helped explain how state government really works for everyday people?

This happens with almost every program. For one example, why is the majority party concerned about getting minority party votes for the bonding bill? Because our state constitution requires a 60 percent vote to pass a bonding bill—bipartisanship is required here. For a variety of reasons, personal relationships between legislators, particularly legislators of different political parties, may not be as strong as in previous decades.

Looking back over the years, what are you most proud of when it comes to the show's impact on the community and on civic engagement?

This is an opportunity for dialogue between viewers and their elected representatives. I'm grateful for the willingness of our elected representatives and senators to make themselves available for Your Legislators.

From where you sit, what are a few of the biggest issues facing Minnesota's Legislature right now—things you think more citizens should be paying attention to?

I'm focusing here on some of the less well-known issues—the candidates for Governor in 2026 are already telling us what they think are significant issues and those issues will no doubt be discussed during our 2026 programs. But other issues are also significant and a nonexclusive list would include property taxes, the agriculture economy, the business environment, projected budget deficits, various education issues, the bonding bill and the ongoing discussion between MHealth Fairview, the University of Minnesota, and state government about medical services. And as happens every legislative session, we'll also be talking about issues that aren't on the radar screen for anyone at the moment.

What's your favorite part about hosting Your Legislators—whether it's a particular moment on set or something behind the scenes?

On a number of occasions, in fact I'd say it happens every year in one form or another, we'll have a post program discussion in which legislators acknowledge that they have learned something they didn't know before or agree to meet later to discuss some detail that came up during the program. Put another way, both during the programs and outside of the programs, there is plenty of evidence that legislators are interested in discussion, compromise and results. You don't always see that in floor sessions in the House and the Senate.

What would you say to someone who feels like their voice doesn't matter in state government—and how does the show help prove otherwise?

I understand the cynical view that “my opinion doesn't matter” and general frustration with inefficiencies in government. But Minnesota has 201 legislators, the fifth most in the nation, and more legislators than many states with many more residents (e.g., California). Your opinion does matter, even if your legislator isn't always persuaded by that opinion and legislators are intensely interested in what voters think even if that interest isn't obviously displayed.

If you had to sum up Your Legislators in just three words, what would they be?

I can do this in two words—it's the program title. Your Legislators is all about conversations with, you know, your legislators.

PRODUCER MATT JOHNSON

In your time with the program, what are the biggest changes you've seen in how the show is produced or how viewers engage with it?

The biggest change to the program would be the move from in person discussions to remote recording during the Covid lockdowns. It was an interesting challenge to take a show that was known for its roundtable discussions and try to translate that into a format where people might be in completely different corners of the state.

Working behind the scenes, you've seen a lot of episodes unfold. Is there a moment from the past eight years—on air or off—that really stands out to you?

My favorite moment from these past years has to be when Rep. Michael Howard's son interrupted the program dressed as Luke Skywalker. You can find the clip on the Pioneer PBS YouTube channel if you want to relive it! Those unscripted moments are part of the fun of doing a live program.

Looking ahead, what are you excited about for the future of the show—whether it's new ideas, new technology, or new ways to connect with Minnesotans?

Technology is constantly evolving and changing and I'm excited for more ways for our viewers to find and engage with the show.

Why do you think people should be engaged with local, state, and national politics?

Everyone should definitely keep up with and participate in politics on some level. Even if you have no interest in politics, politics have an interest in you. The decisions made at every level of government affect your life and you have an influence on that. Why waste that power while you have it?

If you had to sum up Your Legislators in just three words, what would they be?

“For the people.” We do this program for our viewers and they are the most important part of it.
